

The National Club
Founded in 1874

To whom it may concern:

This letter is to confirm that J.D. Strachan Construction was responsible for the coordination of all aspects of the work, and management of the trades, required for The National Club's very successful Front Lobby Renovation Project, carried out during the Summer of 2004 in our designated (1907) heritage clubhouse.

The project involved not only reconstruction of the front lobby and reception area, but also included the installation of a barrier-free lift for physically challenged people. It was a challenging project to work on, given the building's heritage designation, carrying out construction while the club was in use, and the restricted space available for the lift.

Despite these circumstances, the project was completed very successfully, on time and on budget, and has been of substantial benefit to all club users, particularly those who require special access.

I would highly recommend J.D. Strachan Construction for any project of this nature. Don Hutchinson was extremely professional, and a pleasant person to work with.
